DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities:

Re claim 1, line 9: Substitute "a mini-card" with -- the mini-card --.

Appropriate correction is required.

3. Claim 4 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. Claim 4 recites "a mini-card with a semiconductor device... manufactured by the method of claim 1," and claim 1 recites "a method of manufacturing a mini-card with a semiconductor memory device". Therefore, claim 4 does not further limit the subject matter of claim1. Appropriate clarification and correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1 and 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sato et al (US 5,956,601) in view of Luvini et al (US 6,193,557).

Re claims 1 and 3-5, Sato et al discloses a method of manufacturing a card with a semiconductor device comprising providing an array of substrates including a plurality of individual substrates connecting together (see figs. 1a-1b); mounting a semiconductor memory device on each individual substrates (see figs. 1c-1d); covering the individual substrates with molding portions 3, which serves respective cases (see figs. 1c-1d) wherein the substrate is partially exposed outwardly of the case (see fig. 2a); and dividing the substrate array to provide encased individual substrates each completing the card having the semiconductor memory device embedded therein (see figs. 1a-3c; col. 3, line 55 through col. 5, line 32).

Sato et al fails to teach or fairly suggest that the card is a mini-card.

Luvini et al teaches the above limitation with mini-SIM card (col. 1, lines 23-39).

It would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to substitute the chip card as taught by Sato et al with a mini-card in order to provide Sato et al with a more compact system, wherein a mini-card can be carried along with the user at all due to its mini size (e.g., the mini-card can be carried in a small pocket or wallet, etc.). Furthermore, such modification would have been an obvious extension as taught by Sato et al, well within the ordinary skill in the art, and therefore an obvious expedient.

6. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sato et al in view of Masahiko (US 5,852,289). The teachings of Sato et al have been discussed above.

Art Unit: 2876

Re claim 2, Sato et al has been discussed above but fails to teach or fairly suggest that each substrate is sandwiched between top and bottom case segments.

Masahiko teaches the above limitation with a substrate 122 having a semiconductor chip 123 mounted thereon being sandwiched between top 121b and bottom 121a case segments (see figs. 12b, 14a&b, and 18; col. 2, lines 11+ and col. 9, lines 24+).

It would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teachings of Masahiko into the teachings of Sato et al in order to provide Sato et al with a better protection of the chip module, preventing the chip from being damaged. Furthermore, such modification would provide Sato et al with a more accurate system, and thus providing a more user-friendly system. Accordingly, such modification would have been an obvious extension as taught by Sato et al, well within the ordinary skill in the art, and therefore an obvious expedient

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The patents to Murohara (US 6,089,461); Iwasaki et al (US 6,137,710); DeFrasne et al (US 5,603,629); Hohmann et al (US 5,943,769); Hirai et al (US 6,308,894); Ohuchi (US 5,877,542); Fukuda (US 6,091,137); Nakai et al (JP 3-76691); and Isberner (DE 198 33 103) are cited as of interest and illustrate a similar structure to a PC adapter cards and method of manufacturing the same.
